

WE NOMINATE

Charles Grosvenor Osgood, a titan of Princeton Present and Past and one of the inspirational teachers of this century, who at age 92 — in much the same way Justice Holmes wrote Supreme Court decisions at 90 and Titian continued to paint masterpieces at 98 — has capped his career with the University of Washington's publication of 11 admirably edited essays and addresses, "The Creed of A Humanist." This slim, 142-page volume, that to date has unfortunately escaped the attention of major literary publications, must rank among the most stimulating appeals of the post-World War II era for the study of liberal arts as an end in itself.

Contending that the onrush of science has dimmed the individual's identity, Osgood firmly believes: "The world has not struggled to its present peak of civilization just by mass movements or methods of research. Always behind mass and method moves an individual working through individuals. So, if the world now on our hands is to be saved from barbarism, it will not be by mass education or mere knowledge, but by living individuals, and by concern for the individual, be he poet, artist, sage, teacher, student, or undistinguished citizen."

The Pennsylvania-born, Yale-trained Osgood, whose first Princeton students will be returning this weekend to celebrate their 57th Reunion, joined the ranks of professors emeriti a quarter-century ago upon completing 32 years in the Department of English. One of the "preceptor guys" hand-picked by Woodrow Wilson in 1905, and known far and wide even after his formal "retirement" for his open houses for students, Osgood had little respect for traditions and developed courses which sliced across arbitrarily-imposed boundaries and helped set in motion the trend that ousted narrowing formalism in favor of unifying divisional programs of study.

For 15 years a Trustee of the Princeton Public Library, long a member of the New Jersey Library Commission and active in major scholarly organizations, including the prestigious American Philosophical Society, Osgood actually relinquished his teaching responsibilities two years "early" (1937) in order to devote more time to writing and research. The author of "The Voice of England," a celebrated history of English literature, and "Poetry As A Means of Grace," he was the supervising editor of the definitive edition of the works of poet Edmund Spenser. The first Spenser volume appeared in 1932, the eighth in 1947 and the final index in 1956.

Early in the 1950's Osgood, an outspoken critic of American education, in a Princeton Phi Beta Kappa address defined liberal education in terms that have since been quoted on innumerable occasions, and most often during the "commencement season." He took a hard look at the world around him, selected "The Proper Study" as his topic and proceeded to spell out "The Creed of A Humanist": Men should "do their work and rethink their thoughts to new agreement on a scale not shortened to the squint focus of this little life, but adjusted to the infinite reaches apprehended by the faith that transcends knowledge."

For sensing in decades past all Emerson meant when he wrote "we do not count a man's years until he has nothing else to count"; for constantly setting for himself, and for others, new goals for achievement; for his selfless service to his fellow men; he is TOWN TOPICS' nominee as

RECREATION DEBATED
Major Project Is Outlined.
"I'm new to Princeton," said the young woman in the back of the auditorium. "Why wasn't this done long ago?"

She was one of about 500 Princeton residents who filled the high school auditorium Monday night to hear what Borough and Township recreation committees had to offer in the way of plans for Community Gardens. They also heard, somewhat unexpectedly, about teenagers.

It was largely a sympathetic and responsive audience. When Melvin Gottlieb, chairman for the Township and presiding officer at the meeting, asked everybody in favor to stand up, about 90 percent of the audience rose.

John R. Yost of the Township recreation committee, made the presentation, reminding the audience that surveys of the recreation needs of the Princeton community had been made in 1943, 1946, 1956, 1957, 1958, 1959, 1960 and 1961.

last week in TOWN TOPICS, the Community Gardens plan proposes three broad recreation projects: an organized games area on the flat south side of Route 206 adjoining Township Hall and Community Park School, an area marked out for football, soccer and baseball, with courts for volleyball, basketball and tennis. (See sketch on page 3.)

Mr. Yost pointed out that Community Park School had been designed with such playing fields in mind, and that its gymnasium, locker and shower rooms all open out to this area.

Part two of the plan lies in the hilly, wooded land across Route 206. Here the committee suggests a pond, which would serve the triple purpose of draining a swamp, providing a place to ice-skate and adding to the natural beauty of hills and woods. A steep slope that rises from the pond would be for sledding, kite-flying and just plain rambling.

Near the pond would be picnic tables under the trees, and paths laid out through the woods. Informal playfields would stretch east of the pond, and additional tennis courts would be laid out to the west. Parking areas would be provided on both sides of Route 206.

Rink? The third project is a community swimming pool of 10,000 square feet, with a 900-square foot wading pool, both laid within the elbow of the curving pond. Bathhouses would serve swimmers in summer and skaters in winter.

There is also the possibility, though this is not included in the plans, of an ice-skating rink near pond and pool. It would be a calculated money-maker which could pay for its own construction and maintenance costs and perhaps, in time, show a profit.

In terms of priority, the committee would like to see the south side developed first because so much had already been done there in grading and seeding for the use of Community Park's young athletes. Second: the pool. Finally, the rest of the north side.

Of the three possible ways to finance the program, (gifts, memberships, bonds) Mr. Yost said that a special advisory committee had recommended a bond issue.

How Much? The effect on taxes? Mr. Yost said that, with 15-year, 3½ percent bonds, the pool would cost $29,400 a year to finance. This would mean $4 more a year in taxes on a $25,000 house. Development of the south side: $22,000 a year, or an additional $3 in taxes; development of the north side, $24,400, or another $3, making a total of $10 more a year for the whole project.

"Princeton is way behind other communities of comparable size in capital outlay for recreation," Mr. Yost declared. He said that cities with about 25,000 population usually set aside about 5 percent of their municipal expense budget for recreation. Cities with fewer, about 8-10 percent. In contrast, he said that in the past six years, Borough and Township have allotted 13 percent for recreation.

If all three parts of the program were built at once, Mr. Yost said that financing plus operating costs of $40,000 minimum a year, would bring to 7.3 percent the amount allotted to recreation in Princeton's yearly budgets.

"It's a conservative plan," Mr. Yost concluded, "an intelligent supplement to what now exists."

Mr. Gottlieb reminded the audience that Borough and Township have appropriated $250,000 which can be used either to go on with construction of playfields, or to "get pretty close to a swimming pool."

"We'd like to go ahead with the whole thing now," Mr. Gottlieb urged, "not attack it piecemeal. Recreation has been studied and recommended to death. There are indeed numerous demands on the governing bodies, but they are willing to support this if there is public demand."

The Answer. "I can answer the question 'Why hasn't this been done before?'" said William L. Wilson, Township Committeeman, who was in the audience. "It's because we've never had leadership like this before, and never had a meeting like this before."

Committeeman Wilson, who had not stood in response to Mr. Gottlieb's "all-in-favor" request, explained his position by saying, "I think it would be

Round-Up

More than 175 representatives of industry, real estate and other fields of activity this week toured the area of the proposed Princeton Center for Industrial Research (which is not in Princeton at all, but a couple of miles towards New York from the Penns Neck circle on Route One) ... actually, a half of the 527-acre area is in Plainsboro, the other half in South Brunswick ... multi-million dollar project was announced a year ago but even now has no date for ground-breaking.

Last Thursday, two juveniles were caught siphoning gas from cars in the parking yard between Chambers and John Streets ... They are to be summoned to appear before Juvenile Referee Howard W. Stepp for a preliminary hearing ... according to Police Chief McCrohan, there have been a number of complaints of gas-stealing from that yard ... this time the place was surrounded by three patrol cars on a stake-out ... the gas siphoning is done mainly by kids who, police report, "are too lazy to work, yet all are riding around town in cars and they have to get their gas somewhere."

A week ago Tuesday, $125 in cash was stolen from Renwick's register ... person took key from cabinet to unlock register, a person who obviously knew where to look for it ... police believe the thief hid in the restaurant just before closing time, have been questioning former employees and report that "we have a good lead."

Vandalism at Princeton High School, perpetrated by one or more self-styled artists who like blue, gold and orange ... paint in those colors was used to smear the new gymnasium door, with the numbers "63" and "69" daubed on the side of the building and on the sidewalk.

Summer's on the way, with both the heat and the humidity providing proof ... lowest reading in the past week was 56, with several excursions into the 80's and humidity even higher.

Rainfall continues well below normal, although other nearby sections of the east have been drenched in the past few days ... for the statistically-minded, summer begins at 11:04 p.m. on Saturday, June 21.

TOWN TOPICS has expanded its office space by some 75%, taking over four rooms which formerly served as an apartment in the rear of 4 Mercer Street ... total square footage is now about 1800—almost five times the area in use when the current location was first occupied in 1951.

Graduates of all ages dominate much of the news in this week's TOWN TOPICS as commencement exercises are held ... many of those partaking in diploma distribution away from home are listed on pages 19 and 20 ... on page 21, contributions to Mailbox differ with TOWN TOPICS' comments on a piece of sculpture recently acquired by the University, while another letter tells of a sniper shooting cats in Lawrenceville.

"Business in Princeton" (page 27) reports on an interior decorator who is now engaging in commercial and office design on a large scale ... football makes off-season news in the sports section (28-30), as do baseball, crew, softball and next week's national intercollegiate tennis tournament.

Juvenile Referee Howard Stepp warns sharply of new adolescent deviation from the normal—inhaling glue fumes to achieve a form of intoxication—in one of the numerous major news stories ... a fatal automobile accident to a Princeton attorney was the worst of several crashes which took place last week ... consideration of possible consolidation of Princeton's two school districts is about to move from the passive to the active stage.

Members of Trinity Parish will meet next week to consider plans for reconstruction of the church following last winter's fire (News of the Churches, page 32) ... In Question of the Week (page 6), Princetonians give their impression of the value of the racial demonstrations taking place in the south.

unrealistic to commit myself tonight. I think there must be due process of law with public hearings, but I favor this program in spirit."

"I know why it hasn't been done before," said Peter Putnam, Roper Road. "It's because we think smugly of Princeton as the Athens of America and goldbrick along on having that campus right in town, and so we haven't acted the way ordinary communities would have acted."

"What do we do now?" asked Mrs. Frank Vomacka, 8 Evelyn Place, a member of the Borough Recreation Committee, "we need guidance on the direct approach to take."

Mr. Gottlieb suggested that someone volunteer to lead an organization which would appeal to both governing bodies, and he suggested that individuals approach Councilmen or Committeemen.

"Let's see whether anyone here has alternative recommendations," said Donald O. North. "If not, the size and mood of this audience certainly indicates approval."

Those Teens. Part of the presentation included the preliminary report of a survey of high school recreational needs made by Gallup and Robinson for the Council of Community Services, and this report, made by A. Donald Hay, steered the meeting off into the by-ways of teen-age problems.

Mr. Gottlieb was forced to say repeatedly that his committee assignment had not included teen-age recreation specifically, but the audience was not to be denied.

One sturdy youth, who identified himself as Robert James, 2 Evelyn Place, Class of 1962, Princeton High, strode to the microphone on stage and delivered himself of pungent remarks about restaurants who will not allow high school students inside (for any length of time, that is, and without a minimum charge) and policemen who don't allow teenagers outside because they might be loitering. "This is democracy?" he asked.

The Gallup and Robinson survey, made about two weeks ago, showed that, of 1,035 high school students polled, 82.3 percent wanted a snack bar for "hanging out," and 76.5 percent wanted a place to dance, while for summertime fun, 81.5 percent wanted a swimming pool.

Mr. Gottlieb pointed out that many kinds of recreation were needed in Princeton, and that there was room for many groups with many interests. "We need a full-time director," he said, "but we can't do everything all at once."

HOUSING SITE ACCEPTED

At Lengthy Council Meeting. The Borough Housing Authority presented its case to the Mayor and Council Tuesday night in a request to continue with plans for a 30-unit, low-cost housing project for older residents of Princeton. The project, which would be located on a two- and a-half-acre site on Harrison Street north of Nassau, was accepted "in general" at the meeting which, bulwarked by other special and regular business, ran for almost four hours.

Among other business to come before Mayor and Council was the requested approval of variances, already okayed by the Zoning Board, to allow Princeton Hospital to proceed with its plans for modernization and extension of its service facilities and construction of the new "J" building, which will extend from the present structure out toward Witherspoon Street.

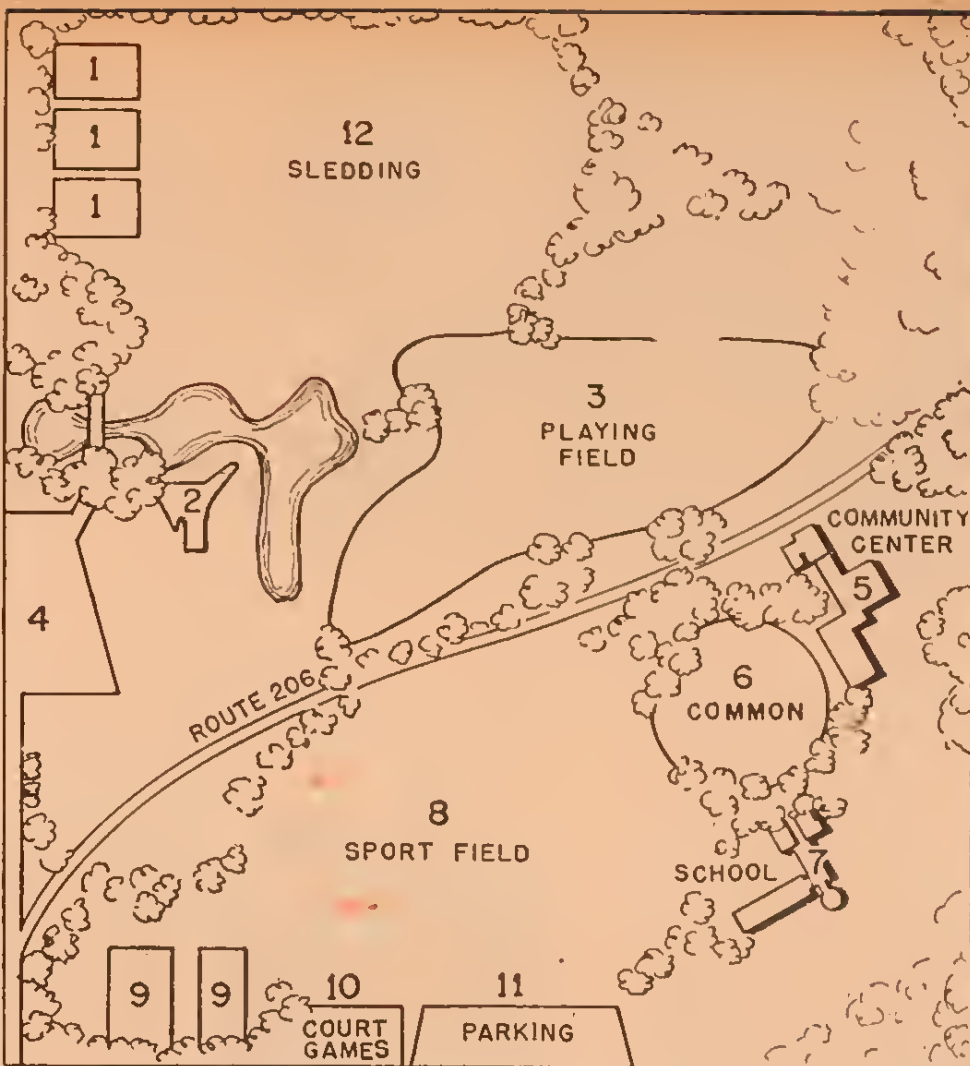

Acceptance of the Housing Authority's plans was given by a 5-0 vote, with Councilman William H. Walker II abstaining. Approval of the hospital's requests was granted by a 3 to 2 majority, with council member Dr. Ellwood W. Godfrey abstaining because of membership on the hospital medical staff.

The hearing on the hospital and on other business to come before Council was held in the Borough Hall room which customarily doubles as Council chamber and magistrate's court. Because of the estimated 150 townspeople who appeared to take part in the session on the low-cost housing project for the elderly, however, the major part of the meeting was moved to the auditorium.

Acceptance of the Housing Authority's request was made on the adoption by Council of a statement read by Councilman Alan W. Carrick. This acceptance followed a presentation of the authority's plans by its executive director, Mrs. Gloria Michael, the reading of nearly 20 letters and petitions from residents, both pro and con, by Borough Administrator Robert F. Mooney and Mayor Henry S. Patterson, and the hearing of a large number of statements by members of the audience.

Despite the unusual size of the crowd and the obvious partisan feelings of many of the spectators, the meeting was conducted by Mayor Patterson with equanimity and impartiality. All who wanted to speak got at least one chance to do so, and the prevailing atmosphere was one of reason rather than rancor.

The statement read by Mr. Carrick and approved by the

A PLACE TO HAVE FUN: Community Gardens, straddling Route 206, was deeded to Princeton Township for recreation. Now, committees from both Borough and Township have come up with a plan. On this sketch, in addition to the designated uses, are tennis courts (1) and (9); swimming and wading pool (2); and parking (4). Also, a Common for outdoor plays, band concerts and school events; a Community Center which would grow from an expanded Township Hall. At the formal presentation of this plan, made Monday night in the High School auditorium, one member of the audience suggested a 206 overpass to connect the two areas. (Story on page one.)

five Council members voting follows:

"Borough Council is prepared to accept in general the Housing Authority's proposal to place 30 units of public housing for the elderly on a two-and-a-half-acre site on the west side of North Harrison Street.

"Council's zoning jurisdiction may be exercised upon a variance recommendation of the Board of Adjustment. Council will therefore give careful consideration to any variance recommendation lawfully made and brought before it.

"It should be understood that Borough Council and the Board of Adjustment, as well as the Housing Authority, are subject to general principles of zoning law and that any action in zoning matters must meet the test of such principles. Council's obligation is to cooperate with and assist the Housing Authority in zoning matters by taking such action as may be lawful. Conversely, it will not knowingly act beyond its powers in this or any other case."

In other action at the meeting, the Council:

- Approved the renewal of liquor licenses for one year for all applicants.

- Set up mechanics for sale on July 9 of a bond issue of $614,000 for public improvements, this issue to be made to consolidate bond issues now outstanding.

- Received notice from the State Department of Motor Vehicles that the speed limit on that part of Rosedale Road which lies within the Borough would be raised from 25 to 45 miles per hour.

- Approved a recommendation by the Zoning Board to permit an open space variance for the University's addition to McCormick Hall.

- Received notice that the fire department's annual parade and review are scheduled for June 26.

COMMENCEMENT TUESDAY

For University. The 216th commencement exercises of Princeton University will be held Tuesday at 11 a.m. for 709 graduates on the campus before Nassau Hall, culminating a six-day program which will begin this weekend with class reunions.

At 11 a.m. Sunday, Dr. Robert F. Goheen will deliver the Baccalaureate address in the University Chapel following the traditional academic procession of faculty, trustees and members of the graduating class.

After Baccalaureate, members of the National Alumni Association will gather in front of Nassau Hall for their annual meeting and at 3 p.m. the annual Service of Remembrance for alumni who died during the year will be held in University Chapel. A reception at "Prospect" will be held from 4 to 6 Sunday by Dr. and Mrs. Goheen for members of the class.

the graduating class and their families.
But for the 4,000 alumni who will return, dressed in their traditional class garb—space suits or kilts, clown costumes or cowboy hats—the weekend will begin on Thursday morning with an impressive program of 12 Faculty-Alumni Forums, "Genes and Metabolism," "The South Today," "Medieval Vestiges In Modern Man" and "The Protection of the Public Interest In Collective Bargaining" will be among the topics presented to the men in orange and black on Thursday and Friday.

Then on Saturday, comes the P-rade, starting at 1:30 and proceeding along Prospect to Clarke Field for the Yale-Princeton baseball game. The oldest alumnus in the P-rade will be the Rev. William H. Johnson, at 97 years of age the only surviving member of the class of 1888. He will be attending his 75th reunion. His younger son, the Rev. R. Park Johnson, class of '28, will be attending his 35th reunion.

All surviving members of the class of 1893, including the Rev. Marshall Harrington, 92, of Princeton, plan to attend their 70th reunion.

In addition to forums and the P-rade and the general, unstructured pleasures of meeting old classmates, alumni will have an opportunity to tour the new Engineering Quadrangle, take a bus ride to the James Forrestal Research Center, attend a faculty reception for alumni, participate in step-singing in front of Nassau Hall and attend Triangle Club's "Ahead of the Game" at McCarter.

SCHOOL STUDY SET

By Borough, Township. Both school boards, Borough and Township, announced this week in a joint statement that they have begun their long-awaited school study.

The Township school board has wanted a full school study by both boards for some time; however, the Borough board has felt that it would be wiser to wait for the full municipal operations study and move parallel to it.

Shortly after Robert V. Dilley was appointed chairman of the full municipal study in April, the two boards met and agreed that now was the time to move ahead.

The study will be conducted in two stages. First, the committee will lay plans and decide, in depth and detail, what should be studied and how, reporting at the end of the summer. Members have already begun this first phase. Then, committee members will begin to collect basic facts, analyze and interpret them.

The thermometer has been having its ups and downs of late, and so has the humidity. More of the same is in store.

The next 48 hours will be cooler than usual, the Man reports. In fact, there is a chance that the forthcoming weekend will also see temperatures somewhat below normal. The big question: will it rain Saturday and dampen the P-rade? Chances are about 50-50, according to the weather map.

Although conducted independently, the school study will be coordinated with the findings of the joint committee on municipal operations. To accomplish this coordination, the presidents of the two boards are working with Mr. Dilley.

Committee members are, for the Borough: Robert A. Lively, William K. Evans and Bryan V. Moore; for the Township: Mrs. Jess Epstein, George M. Grace and Donald H. Riddle.

"It is the intention of the two boards to provide the community with an authoritative and definitive report on this far-reaching question," said the two presidents, Graham Rohrer for the Borough and Richard Pearson for the Township. "It should provide the basis for decisions that must be made within the next five years that will shape the long-term future of public education in the Princeton community."

OVER 300 TO GRADUATE

From Princeton High. Commencement exercises for 303 seniors at the Princeton High School will be held on Harris Field this Thursday evening beginning at 6:30. In the event of rain, ceremonies will be held at 6:30 p.m. on Friday on Harris Field, or in the school auditorium in case of continued inclement weather.

The address of welcome will be given by the president of the senior class, David Hoyer. Carol Deering will deliver the valedictory, and Carol Beth Evans will be the class salutatorian.

The Rev. Dr. Elmer C. Honrighausen, vice-president of the board of education, will announce the names of those who have been awarded scholarships. The commencement address will be delivered by Graham Rohrer, president of the board of education.

Principal Kenneth E. Michael will present the class to Dr. Chester R. Stroup, superintendent of schools. Dr. Stroup will, in turn, present them to Mr. Rohrer for the awarding of diplomas to each graduating senior. For a list of the Class of 1963, see page 26.

The invocation and the benediction will be given by the Rev. Dr. Albert D. Tyson of the African Methodist Episcopal Church of Princeton. The senior chorus and the high school commencement band will also participate in the exercises.

TRIANGLE TO RETURN

This Weekend! "Ahead of the Game!" Triangle Club's excursion into American biography, will be given in McCarter Theatre Friday and Saturday at 8:30, the last performances of this year's production to be given anywhere on any stage. Ticket information at the University Store, WA 1-8500.

"Ahead of the Game!" explores the sudden rise to fame of an All-American boy, tracing his life from childhood through such traumatic experiences as his first teenage dance and his introduction to college life.

He meets, at college, the queen of the campus, Betty Coed, a part-time model for Dial soap. Later adventures include a skirmish with Madison Avenue and a Greek belly dancer. There is, of course, the traditional Triangle all-male kick line of second-string football players.

Founded in 1893 by Booth Tarkington, Triangle Club has a long list of distinguished alumni, including F. Scott Fitzgerald, Jose Ferrer, Joshua Logan, James Stewart and Nick Foran.

A special Department of Defense Certificate of Esteem for Patriotic Service was presented to Triangle last summer for the club's tour of 25 American armed forces camps in Germany.

"THIEVES" ARE COMING
In Players' Production, Reunion weekend crowds are expected to fill Murray Theatre for the Community Players' production of the Jean Anouilh comedy, "Thieves' Carnival."

Performances are scheduled for this Friday and Saturday and next Thursday, Friday and Saturday at 8:30 p.m. Tickets are on sale at the Princeton University Store and will be available in the box-office the evenings of the performance, if any are left. Prices are $1.50 for next Thursday and $2 for Fridays and Saturdays.

During intermission, Players will serve refreshments outdoors under the trees, weather permitting. All fresco refreshments are a tradition of spring productions by Community Players.

For the Anouilh play, Esther Usiskin has directed a cast including Rose Mintz, Barbara Scheide, Jennifer Dawson, Mimi Parasholes, Robert Schultz, Garrison Ellis, Thomas Queenan, Peter McKinney, William Patton, Eleanor and Charles Scozzaro, Lorrie Jones and Granville Miller.

MOON WILL BE BLUE

Through June 22, When Michael Ellis first moved in to the Bucks County Playhouse in New Hope as producer back in 1953, he staged the F. Hugh Herbert comedy, "The Moon Is Blue."

He has produced it again, this summer starring the television personality, Merv Griffin, and the combination of play and performer is breaking attendance records at the New Hope theatre. "The Moon Is Blue" will run through Saturday, June 22, with evening performances at 8:30. Matinees are at 2 p.m., but all are sold out.

The first children's show of the season will be the Dolphin Players' performance of "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" which will be offered twice on Thursday, June 27. The first performance will be at 11 a.m. and the second at 2 p.m. All seats are reserved, adults $2 and children $1.

Using a special processing for cardboard, the Dolphin Players have constructed large, full and colorful scenery which "brings to life" the story-book pictures familiar to young audiences.

"THE WONDERFUL WORLD OF THE BROTHERS GRIMM": A scene from the richly colorful biography of two famous spinners of fairy tales, now at the Playhouse.

will be seen in premiere on Monday, June 24, with Fred Clark, Ruth White, Murray Hamilton, Nancy Wickwire and Ruth McDevitt.

PLAYHOUSE

The Wonderful World of the Brothers Grimm (now playing). This is the story of Wilhelm and Jacob Grimm, who lived in Germany some hundred years ago and whose fairy tales have delighted youngsters across the world and across the years.

Worked into the narrative are three of the most notable of the tales, "The Dancing Princess," "The Cobbler and the Elves" and "The Singing Bone."

HE SPEAKS FOR THE NEGRO: Civil rights, integration, lawful means—these words will be part of this country's national vocabulary in the months ahead. Nathaniel Sullivan, a Negro, gives his opinion of the demonstrations for civil rights that are cropping up in the south and elsewhere.

Question of the Week

Question: What is your opinion of Negro demonstrations for civil rights now mushrooming in the south and elsewhere?

Where asked: Around town

Karl Vnn Vorys, 281 Jefferson Road, research associate at Princeton University: "I think it is high time somebody did something. I don't like violence to obtain political ends, but some of the most important rights of man were achieved through violence because no other means were available. The American Revolution is one example. 'When in the course of human events' . . ."

Mrs. S. P. Scott, 320 Hamilton Avenue, retired social worker: "I think it's tragic but I think it is entirely the fault of the white people. Although I am a Democrat, I feel very strongly that the administration has been remiss in its leadership. This is the white man's problem, too, and he's got to work on it instead of just being on the defensive. The Negro demonstrations are a two-edged sword. They help the Negro and they hurt him at the same time, but whatever they may be I feel they are inevitable."

Michael A. Tamasi Jr., 102 Spruce Street, journeyman carpenter: "All men are created equal is the way I feel. I think what the Negroes are doing is okay. There are a lot of good colored people and a lot of bad ones. The same as white people."

Mrs. Michael Ratley, Trenton, Princeton secretary: "I think it is an unnecessary way to obtain notoriety. I think many of the Negroes are sincere but there are too many agencies and organizations that are using the Negro. There are other people in the world who have the same problems of discrimination and unequal rights. Nobody seems to be worrying about them. My biggest peeve is the way we treat the American Indians."

Raymond Mack, 15 Henderson Avenue, janitor: "I really feel they are not doing themselves any good. They are too forward in their demonstrations. I think the Federal law should apply in all cases. I don't think the authorities in the southern states should try to run the federal government in the case of these conflicts."

Nathaniel Sullivan, 5 Harris Road, employee, Princeton Borough Street Department: "I feel they are benefiting the Negro as a whole and I believe, as time goes by, they will come up this way, the same as they are down South. I feel we are accomplishing something. They mean a lot, as far as the Negro is concerned. We're not forcing the white people to do anything; we're showing them what we want. We are in earnest. We want equal rights in the South, and in the North, East and West. I think the white people are starting to go along with us."

Donald Randolph, 210 Birch Avenue, employee, Princeton Borough Street Department: "I think they're good. I feel it is about time. It's been a long time since this inequality has been going on down South, and it's here, too, to some extent. We want equal rights just like everybody else. I feel that these demonstrations are another sign that civil rights for us is near."

Frank Woolford, 143 John Street, retired maintenance man: "Even though we have been waiting for over a hundred years we're still in the same position as we were back in the Civil War. Yet I think this thing should be worked out gradually. I think both sides should be able to come to some agreement without having to resort to these demonstrations. In the face of so many, I think things will have . . ."

IT'S NEW To Us

WHO'S FOR SAND?

Shifting Sand. That is. Without a shift this summer, you might as well stay home. Bamberger's bathing suit department, where they sell prosaic things like bathing caps and towels, is also a place where they sell shifts. They sell shifts by the shifting, shifting sand, if you see what we mean.

Cole of California turns aside from suits for a brief moment to design a shift of fine hopsacking in natural color with narrow orange calico hem band, shoulder tie and armhole-neck band. Another from same house is oyster white homespun, plain, with big chalk-white buttons down the front.

Everglaze cotton, bolts and bolts of it, so far as we can tell, has been used by Peter Pan for a series of A-shaped shifts in half-half combinations of ivory and royal, gold, raspberry, terracotta, all with big square pockets in the reverse color.

Peter Pan is the name to conjure with in Bamberger's bathing suit department, too, where Oleg Cassini has designed, for P.P., a pleasing collection of fancies like the tank suit with all-over smocking in a reckless turquoise blue and also in raspberry. We found it in a two-piece suit, too. The one-piecer has a belt.

Arnel sharkskin in white, with royal blue paisley makes a striking suit, especially when you consider its draped, sarong - style lines. Another draped, suit is an unusual chocolate brown, absolute and solid, with neither flower nor polka dot. A companion, from Cole, has a zebra top and black

Late, Late Show

Our idea of the best movie in town is the one you show on a rented projector to the kids you've invited to an 11-year-old's birthday party.

At the Photography and Art Center, you may rent such early examples of photography and art as W. C. Fields, Abbott and Costello and vintage silent slapstick. You sit the 11-year-old guests in a darkened room, describe to them the penalties for noise and disturbance, and start the show.

These are 8mm films, and if your young man's tastes do not run to W. C. Fields, you may have "Termites from Mars," or, if your hostess is feminine, "Cinderella." (Females we know, age 11, would prefer "Termites from Mars," but we leave it to you.)

There are also cartoons from every known drawing board in Hollywood, "Three Musketeers" and heaven knows what else. The cardboard containers we saw are all battered and worn, showing that these realms of gold have been well-traveled. Rental is 50 cents each for the films.

Only one word of advice: if you show slapstick, the kind where custard pies are thrown, WAIT UNTIL AFTER REFRESHMENTS.

shorts and a third colleague is all leopard skin with a deep V front and back. (If you want to change your spots, you'll have to use the bath-house.)

Two-piece bathing suit fans might like the dark, tropical print with its chartreuse of tropical sun on leaves, or the extroverted red-white striped top, cut slightly longer than a true bra, and combined with navy shorts. We rather like the peach and white gingham, but you need red pigtailed to wear with it.

Another two-piece is just plain old ticking, with a narrow navy blue band around the leg. Two-piecers go up to size 18 by the way. We dare you.

A dazzler on the two-piece rack is the royal blue with brief knit shorts. The top is a white with blue stripe knit that comes just below the hip. It buttons all the way down the front like a jacket and under it you wear a matching bra. Sort of a short shift Or maybe even a short shirt.

For comfort, Cole has a snug, girdle-brief to wear under your suit, for $2.95, and for glamour, vinyl foam "Curve Views" to fill in the blanks.

Bathing caps? Riots of flowers. Sun hats? Deeply crowned straws in colors like lemon. Bathing shippers? All kinds, slim as a mermaid.

I WANT A PARTY

4 Blowouts for 29 cents. When the smallest member of your family wants a blowout, do your shopping at the Photography Art Center by standing in one spot and just reaching out.

Within the reach of your arm, you'll find, as we said above four blowouts for 29 cents ("blowouts" are those paper Bronx cheers that unroll like a fast snake when you blow into the mouthpiece) a rifle pencil for 59 cents (everybody has to take home a present, you know), paper plates, cloths, cups and decorations and every game except post-office.

Our idea of a party for children is a completely matched set for the table including paper plates, paper cups, plastic spoons and a big paper table cloth. Then, when everybody has gone home, we just wrap up the whole table cloth and toss it into the trash can.

• Motifs at Photography and Art include plates, cloths, etc commemorating space flight, the frontier, the circus and the ballet. There is also a grenadier collection with a plate shaped like a grenadier's tall beaver hat and some red, white and blue (but British, so watch it, if you're planning to celebrate the Fourth) table "linen."

Little girls will love the folding uriness and her towered castle and a fanciful mother will buy the honeycomb spheres to unfold and hang from the ceiling. Also in the "unfolding" collection is a space - express - rocket to be launched from your lunch table, an Indian tepee and a high-spirited clown on a bike.

Well up from the table, everybody, and off to games. Photography and Art has tail-on-the-donkey and a wonderful set of heavy cardboard masks

NEW STRAND

Thurs.-Sat., June 13-15

The Academy Award Winner, SUNDAYS AND BELIE. This tender love story of two lonely souls, a pre-adolescent girl and an introspective young man has won such universal acclaim that we need say no more about it than that it starts THURS. and FRI. at 8:30 p.m. on SAT. 7 and 9 p.m.

In 1914, Charlie Chaplin, who later would spend five years on a single film, performed in 35 pictures for Mack Sennett's Keystone. More than 20 of these he directed himself, including the first feature-length comedy ever made, TILLIE'S PUNCTURED ROMANCE, in which Chaplin shares the limelight with Marie Dressler, Mabel Normand, Charlie Chase, Edgar Kennedy and others, many of whom were catapulted to fame on the strength of TILLIE'S enormous popularity. At the New Strand, SUN. - TUES. June 16-18, TILLIE'S PUNCTURED ROMANCE. On the same program, a fine English comic, Tony Hancock in CALL ME GENIUS, SUN. Tillie at 7 and 9:40, Genius at 7:45 and 10:25 (two performances of both films). MON. - TUES. 8:30, Tillie first.

brothers are supposed to be compiling a family history. This is a project which Wilhelm finds boring - a circumstance which is the root of all their trouble.

In the fairy tales, Yvette Mimieux is the princess, Russ Tamblyn the woodsman and Jim Backus the king in "The Dancing Princess." Harvey appears again in "Cobbler and the Elves," with George Pal's famous Puppelinos as the enchanting elves. Comedians Terry-Thomas and Buddy Hackett are the rickety knight and faithful servant, respectively, in "The Singing Bone."

The main thread of the story, and each of the tales, is told with rich use of color. The scenic views of the Bavarian mountains are magnificent, enhanced by the Cinemascope three-panel screen. Comment: lively and beautiful.

GARDEN and PRINCE

Dr. No (now playing) is the first of the Ian Fleming thrillers to reach the screen.

The central character is James Bond, a suave British Secret Service agent, played by Sean Connery, a young Scottish-born actor. Joseph Wiseman appears as the malevolent "Dr. No," who seeks to dominate the world through atomic control. The story, filmed in color in Jamaica, concerns the mysterious disappearance of a trusted secret agent and his secretary. The trial of murder leads Bond to an island hideaway, where he is pitted against the diabolical, inventive mind of Dr. No.

Others in the cast are Ursula Andress, as the love interest; Jack Lord as an agent for the CIA, John Kitzmiller as a Jamaican native who assists Bond, and Anthony Dawson as a scientist dealing in duplicity. Comment: intrigue and excitement.

which "talk" when you move your own jaws. One is Paddy the Policeman, another is Chief Whitefeather, one is Princess Polly and then there is Herbie the Chimp, and who knows who is inside!

Simpler dress-ups include a wonderful little coolie hat about the size of a saucer with a black paper pigtail hanging down the back, lovely princess crowns all spangled with silver and a little clown hat and a big clown hat.

We want, even if there is no party, a 14-inch paper parasol with a different color for each rib and white fringe to catch the sun. Forty-nine cents.

COOL ON TOP

For Warm-weather Babies. Diaper shirts from Switzerland, made of the finest batiste and embroidered with small Swiss lambs, are The Little Clothes Line's solution to hot weather for 1963 summer babies. There are rubber panties to match, covered with the same fine batiste.

When you really want baby to get wet, there are tank trunks about the size of a washcloth, made of bright red, royal or lemon yellow stretch fabric, broadly trimmed with white and marked at the waistline by a terribly nautical cord tie. Girls have one-piece, boys have trunks.

A big, comfortable terry pullover will sop up the sea after a swim. The seersucker applique (seahorse) matches the terry-kneed shorts, and there are all kinds of color combinations.

Seersucker in the coolest pastels has been fashioned in the coolest possible way, hanging straight from the yoke of a minute dress. If you like summertime to be bolder (or of the day is not quite so warm) you might choose a dramatic Joseph's coat pinafore with bold red, purple and teal stripes. It hangs straight from the shoulders, and over it goes a square like a fringed napkin, with the points out toward each shoulder. If you have a black-eyed beauty who gets a magnificent tan, she would be terrific in this one.

A companion, in deep gold and terracotta stripes, has shoulder fringe, and a big bandanna to wear over curls, just for looking pretty.

to be worked out. I'm optimistic.

Miss Betty Wade, 300 Witherspoon Street, operator of snack bar at Westminster Choir College. Some of them are good and some of them aren't. It depends on how they go about it. I do think things will be better in the South because of them. It's been so long since they have had their rights. Now since they realize they can have them—nothing is going to stop them.

William Rodgers, 218 Witherspoon Street, cook: I think they should have their rights and this seems to be the only way they are going to get them. All we want to do is this; we want our rights. We want our freedom. We want to be able to go the same places a white man can go. That's all we want. The government didn't hesitate to call me to fight during the war. I was wounded defending what America is supposed to stand for—freedom and equality. Well, after the war it seems there were two Americas again: one for the white man and one for us.

Grandel Haney, 140 Witherspoon Street: I think they are worthwhile. I don't think the whites should feel that we are forcing them to give us equal rights. I think they should want to do it. I feel good will come of these demonstrations.

Mrs. Helen Moran, Hopewell, accountant: I definitely feel they have the right to conduct these demonstrations. They pay taxes. They fight in our wars and yet they do not receive the same rights as white people. I think that they are going about trying to get civil rights in a calm manner and I don't feel they are being treated the same way in return.

Edward Nordin, Detroit, superintendent for furniture installation firm: I think it is going to come to this, anyway; they aren't going to be able to stop the Negro. In a way, I don't like to see these demonstrations. I think they should have their's and we should have ours. But it isn't going to be that way. It's just one of those things. Eventually, it will be this way all over.

Ray Wadsworth, 32 Spruce Street, employee, Princeton Water Company: Actually, I don't think they'll gain anything by this. They should wait for the law to take its course. Eventually the whites and Negroes will be mixed. It's coming to that now. I think they are hurting their chances, though, with these demonstrations. They're asking for trouble because the whites will fight back. I think they should go to their own schools and the whites should have their own. I'd fight back in the colored people tried to take over the school where my child was attending.

Carl Salan, Levittown, sales engineer: I'm not a religious man but I believe the Bible says we're all created equal. The Negro has as much right to civil liberties, equal education opportunities and all that as any one else in the United States regardless of race, color and creed, including the white trash in this country of which there is plenty.

Frank Cowley, Mercerville, employee, Nelson Glass Company, Spring Street: This is a problem that goes back quite a while. That is one of the difficulties. There is no doubt about it; the colored and white are going to have to learn to mix. We have to work with them so we might as well learn to live with them. But I don't think these demonstrations are helpful. We'll get a Civil war started again and it will make this country look bad in the eyes of other countries. We'll make it ripe for the Communists to move right in. The colored people may be accomplishing something but the whites aren't accomplishing anything by refusing to learn how to live with Negroes.

Saverio Mangone, 40 Jefferson Road, carpenter: Personally, I think they are too extreme, too pushy. I feel they deserve equal education and equal rights — after all they helped fight for our country — but I think they should wait for more lawful means. I'm not going to mingle with anybody that doesn't like me or with someone I can't get along with.

on questioning by the police, have admitted buying airplane glue, squeezing it into a plastic bag, and inhaling the fumes. They appeared before Juvenile Referee Howard Stepp last week who warned them of the danger of glue sniffing and then referred them to their doctors for a thorough examination.

The apprehension of the youths followed complaints from several Library Place residents. They reported seeing two young men acting in a queer manner and dancing on lawns in an effeminate way. In two instances, police reported that the boys were seen eating tulips.

Chief McCrohan warned that glue sniffing is a very serious habit and can be fatal. "We don't think it is prevalent here," he said, "but there have been rumors of other kids doing it. This is the first official case in Princeton."

Doctor Issues Warning. In order that all citizens, juveniles and adults will be forewarned about the grave dangers inherent in glue sniffing, Mr. Stepp asked Dr. Willard Dalrymple, Director of the University Health Services, to issue a statement on the effects of inhaling the fumes of airplane glue. Dr. Dalrymple replied:

"Although 'glue sniffing' has become common among some groups of children in recent years, it is not an innocuous pastime. Its dangers are two. First, and most obvious, sniffing the fumes given off by airplane glue produces euphoria and inebriation not unlike that produced by alcohol. The child may become unable to control his behavior and he may do harm to himself or others inadvertently.

"Second, these fumes are cumulative and toxic. They come from the organic solvents used in the glue, notably methyl alcohol. Methyl alcohol is 'wood alcohol' which recently caused nearly 50 deaths in New York City. Although breathing methyl alcohol is different from drinking it, unusually heavy or repeated inhaled doses can damage body organs, particularly the liver and the bone marrow."

DIAL WHWH

Starting Late Summer. Princeton's first AM radio station, WHWH, will go on the air in late August, according to Herbert W. Hobler, president of the station.

Studios and offices will be in the new Houghton building now under construction at 221 Witherspoon, with occupancy expected in mid-July.

In the Houghton building, WHWH will have two control rooms and one studio equipped to permit simultaneous broadcasting and recording. Equipment has been so designed that it can be taken on location for spot broadcasting through the area served by the station.

WHWH's facilities will include a news office with wire service, staff offices and a reception area. The transmitter building, mid-way between Princeton and Hopewell, has almost been completed, Mr. Hobler said.

Permanent staff employees will be arriving soon, and Arthur A. Silver, chief engineer, the station's first employee, has been on the job for the last three weeks.

DIPLOMAS TO 25

At Miss Fine's Tuesday, Diplomas were presented to 25 graduates on Tuesday at the 64th commencement of Miss Fine's School. The speaker was Dr. Millicent C. McIntosh, president of Barnard College. The Rev. Carl D. Reimers, assistant dean of Princeton University Chapel, gave the invocation and benediction.

Miss Shirley Davis, headmistress, awarded the school's highest honor award to Jane Aresty and Anne Updike. The Gold "F" for athletic excellence went to Anne Updike. The Presidents' Award, given by the Women's College Club of Princeton in memory of Ann Stevenson Fullam, went to Dianne Drake for highest scholastic standing and the Club's Founders' Award was given to Virgil Elmer for

THREE CARS LEAVE ROAD
In Separate Accidents. Cars out of control ended up off the road in three separate accidents last week in Princeton Township. In each instance, a single car was involved.
At 4:30 Sunday morning, John J. Merkel, 32, of Trenton, driving on Mountain Avenue just north of Bayard Lane, failed to make a curve and crashed into a ditch to the right of the Clark Estate at 57 Mountain Road. One section of picket fence in front of the Clark residence was damaged. Mr. Merkel was uninjured. He told investigating Township police that he was unfamiliar with the area.

Two days earlier, Michael J. Bowen, 17, of Cherry Valley Road, lost control of his small foreign car when its accelerator pedal stuck. Frederick Kline, 19, of 9 Ober Road, a passenger in the car, told police that he tried to reach down and free the pedal but he was unsuccessful. The mishap occurred on Lovers' Lane.
After leaving more than 200 feet of skid marks, Bowen's car came to rest against a rail fence between the roadway and the Marquand Park playground area. A ten-foot section of the fence was destroyed. Neither of the two young men was injured but their car was adjudged a total loss.

Last Wednesday afternoon, James R. Hagadorn, Jr., 20, 5 Murray Place, lost control of his car on the dirt and gravel section of Poor Farm Road which runs between Mt. Lucas and Herrontown Roads. After failing to negotiate a curve, Mr. Hagadorn's car traveled in an "S" path. It then hit a large rock at the edge of the road which caused the car to turn completely around and upside down.

Mr. Hagadorn received contusions and abrasions of the head. A passenger, Richard Hunt, 17, 90 Westcott Road, was treated for avulsion of his forehead and abrasions of the back. Township police issued

Mr. Hagadorn a summons for reckless driving. He reportedly told the police he was driving about 40 miles per hour and did not realize the curve was as sharp as it was.

Multiple Accident. Three cars were involved in a Borough accident which occurred Friday morning on Nassau Street near the intersection of Washington Road.

Kenneth L. VanMarter, 18, 34 Witherspoon Street, skidded on the wet pavement, when his smoothly-worn tires failed to grab hold, into the rear of a car, waiting for the traffic light, operated by Ralph H. Farris of Walpole, Mass. Mr. Farris' car, in turn, was pushed into the rear of a third car, operated by Anthony J. Meyer of 22 Carnegie Drive.

Mr. Meyer complained of a twisted back; the other drivers were uninjured. Borough police issued Mr. VanMarter a summons for careless driving and another for driving an unsafe vehicle. His car was towed from the scene.

What Princeton Is Reading This June

"The Pope is dead." That's the first sentence in Morris West's new novel, "The Shoes of the Fisherman," and although the novel has been three years in preparation, it has been published at just the right time to catch the interest of the reading public. Two Princeton book stores report that the novel is already a best-seller.

Here are the best-sellers on Princeton shelves this June:

Fiction

"The Shoes of the Fisherman," Morris West (Male's Book Shop, University Store).

"Elizabeth Appleton," John O'Hara (Princeton Book Mart).

Non-Fiction

"Her Infinite Variety," Martin M. Hunt (Male's Book Shop).

"On Revolution," Hannah Arendt (University Store).

"The Fire Next Time," James Baldwin (Princeton Book Mart).

Recommended . . . . .

"Elizabeth Appleton," John O'Hara (Male's Book Shop).

"Favorite of the Gods," Sybil Bedford (University Store).

"Our Mother's House," Julian Gloag (Princeton Book Mart).

Hopewell, both on June 3; Mr. and Mrs. George W. Kammer, Penn Lyle Road, Princeton Junction, and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas F. Egan, 21 Shelley Road, Franklin Park, both on June 4; Mr. and Mrs. James Hawley, 14 Prospect Street, Cranbury, on June 6; Mr. and Mrs. Frederick H. Saavedra, 67 Stillwell Road, Kendall Park; Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Kolupski, Disbrow Hill, Hightstown; and Mr. and Mrs. Clement Baldwin, Washington Street, Rocky Hill, all on June 8; and Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Migilore 215 Varsity Avenue, West Windsor, on June 9.

EXECUTIVE KILLED

In Route 27 Accident. Harry C. McKenzie, 56, of 3 Lafayette Road West, was killed Friday afternoon when his car and a truck collided on Route 27 near New Road at about 3 p.m. Mr. McKenzie an attorney, was a member of the board of directors of Johnson and Johnson in New Brunswick.

William Lovas, 40, of 10 Lafayette Avenue, Somerset, was the driver of the truck. Mr. Lovas was not injured in the accident. Charged with death by auto, he was released in $1,500 bail.

State police from the Princeton barracks, who investigated, were told that a school bus which was approaching from the opposite direction turned left in front of the truck driven by Mr. Lovas. In swerving to the left to avoid the bus, Mr. Lovas reportedly sideswiped the car with his truck.

The car being driven by Mr. McKenzie then ran under the trailer-truck, knocking the rear wheel and axle unit out from under the trailer body. The left side of the car was crushed.

Mr. McKenzie is survived by his wife, Mrs. Kathryn B. McKenzie; two sons, Harry P. and J. Michael of Princeton; a brother, John W. of Ashland, Ky., and three sisters, Mrs. George Russell and Miss Catherine McKenzie of La Grange, Ky., and Mrs. James DeBell of Florida.

The funeral was held in All Saints' Chapel, the Rev. Robert R. Spears, Jr., officiating.

FOUR ARE FINED

proximate count early this week seemed to indicate at least $30,000 net profit for the Princeton Hospital Fete, a record amount. Last year's Fete produced a $27,000 net for the hospital.

Of this amount, more than $10,500 is represented by the gross take of the auction, an event so successful that it was still going, going, gone at 8:30 when the rest of the Fete had folded its tents and gone home.

Highest bid at the auction was the $600 that took a completely restored 1830 sofa, but many bargains at $1.95 were reported as dusk closed in. Norman J. Pietras, 35 Haven Avenue, Lawrence Township, won the Thunderbird. He had bought only one ticket.

King of the Fete was Ferdie Wandelt and the Queen was Debbie Hobbler. Runners-up: King: MacPherson Raymond, Queen: Holly Sidford.

Overall winner in the doll clothes contest was Lisa Seidnitz who made a whole marionette, strings, body clothes and all. In the pre-school to second grade class the winners were Fleur Marks (prettiest) and Patty Doyle (most original); grades 3-5, Heidi Flemer and Tina Davies; grades 6-8, Lisa Ely and Leigh Keyser. That sign from "The Ball" it went for $3.

TO HOLD WORKSHOP
For Piano Teachers. The New School of Music Study will sponsor a workshop for area piano teachers Friday at its studios, 353 Nassau Street. The session will open at 9:15 a.m. with discussion of methods of holding the interest of teenage students. Seven new books, supplementary materials in the "Francis Clark Library for Piano Students" will be presented.

At 11:30, following a coffee break, there will be a sight-reading session, including a demonstration with a local student and new "drill-for-skill" reading aids.

The workshop, free of charge to interested teachers, will be led by New School faculty members, Miss Elizabeth Hall, director of the Music Playshop; Miss Doris Martin, advanced group chairman, and Mrs. Donald Gasaway, formerly of the New School staff and now chairman of piano pedagogy at the University of Tulsa. On Saturday the three will leave on separate eight-week tours to demonstrate New School methods.

SODA WINS AWARD

For "Fruitful Teaching." Frank Soda, chairman of the modern language department at Princeton High School, is one of four secondary school teachers in the state to receive a $1,000 prize from Princeton University for distinguished secondary school teaching.

The awards, to be made at the University's commencement exercises next Tuesday, are given annually by an anonymous Princeton alumnus. Full-time teachers in public or private New Jersey senior high schools are eligible and each school is permitted one nomination, submitted by the principal. The schools in which the winners teach receive $250 each for the purchase of books.

Under Mr. Soda's leadership the modern language department at Princeton High School has increased its enrollment in the last nine years to such an extent that more than half the students now take at least one foreign language.

From an initial offering of three years of French and Spanish, the department has expanded its offerings to include four years of French, Spanish, German and Russian. A language laboratory has been established and an exchange teacher program initiated.

A teacher with 23 years of experience in his field, Mr. Soda teaches French and Spanish and co-ordinates the Borough schools' language program, grades three through twelve. He has been one of the country's pioneers in the concept of learning a foreign language at an early age.

Person To Person

The student of bird lore told us many engaging things we'd like to review for you: Birds have been living on earth as any other living creatures, and much longer than most living things that we know today, and there is no known place in the world where birds do not live. There are some 14,000 distinct species of living birds, and when subspecies are included there are about 23,000 different kinds of birds. There seems to be very little (probably none) cross breeding in their natural state with each species grouping with and living only with its own kind, which accounts for the continuation of each species without noticeable changes. Each year billions of birds unfailingly migrate north and south and since most of the migration is in darkness, one cannot assume that they fly by sight of land marks. At least one species, the arctic tern, migrates annually all the way from the arctic to the antarctic, from the top of the world to the bottom, and then back again! Now that we have good ears to take us, we humans apparently are the only ones on earth who travel as much as our feathered friends, and even for ordinary use a good ear, backed by a reliable dealer is a necessity today. May we serve you? Kammler Buick-Pontiac Co., Route 206, opposite Princeton Airport, WA 1-2222.

RETARDED TO GET AID

From Community Fund. Retarded children will be helped by the Princeton Area Community Fund starting in 1964. It has been announced by the fund's board of trustees. The trustees have voted to accept the Mercer County United Association for Retarded Children as a member agency to be included in this year's annual appeal.

Acceptance of the association as a member agency followed several months of study and meetings between the fund's social planning and research committee, under the chairmanship of Paul Orr Jr., and officials of the association for retarded children.

The aims and purposes of the new member agency are to promote the welfare of all mentally - retarded persons whether at home, in the community or in institutions. It also works to develop a better understanding of the problems of the retarded by the public.

A center for retarded children is operated by the association in Trenton. It serves as a program center, a day-care facility and as a sheltered workshop.

DAILY INTEREST makes the difference!

First Trenton's DAILY INTEREST ON SAVINGS gives you more for your money!

$388 interest earned at First Trenton

38¢ interest earned at many other banks

Here's a saver who has $500 in his savings account on April 1. He deposits $25 every two weeks until June 22, when he withdraws all but $25 from his account.

How is interest figured on your savings account? The method can be more important than the rate. Study this chart. Why this tremendous difference in interest over just one quarterly period? Because, when your savings earn DAILY INTEREST, they earn interest from the day of deposit to the day of withdrawal—not just on the low balance during the calendar quarter. And, at First Trenton, 3% interest is compounded every three months. This interest then starts earning DAILY INTEREST, too!

Art Criticism Criticized.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

It was with high hopes that one saw the appearance of an "Art in Princeton" column appear in TOWN TOPICS some months ago. Mrs. Cook, the newly-appointed editor for the column, informed me as Director of the Art Museum that the primary intent of the column was not to be one of art criticism but essentially of reportage of the activities of the Museum, local galleries and artists of Princeton and the vicinity. The initiation of such a column was welcome news indeed to many in the community and the first series of articles were interesting and informative to the specialist and layman alike.

It came somewhat as a shock, followed by incredulity and finally by indignation, therefore to open the May 30th issue of TOWN TOPICS to page one to discover a poor photograph of a distinguished bronze sculpture by Dimitri Hadzi entitled "Thermopylae" which has recently been acquired for the courtyard of the new Engineering Quadrangle of the University. Its elevated location at the top of page one was merited but the brief and inordinately vindictive caption below indicated that the unnamed author had indeed turned reportage into an unbelievably bitter and personal kind of art criticism based on a slight knowledge of long-accepted values in contemporary art.

Though the writer clearly and honestly expressed personal and strongly-felt repulsion to the powerful forms and strong impact "Thermopylae" made on his visual sensibilities, he mitigated his wrath with a Walt Disney-like nostalgia for a time when Princeton populated its campus with "easily recognizable people, tigers, lions and such". To lend additional authority an equally unnamed "world-famous Princeton sculptor" was quoted (I hope correctly) as saying that Hadzi's sculpture was a cliché and had nothing to do with either Princeton or Thermopylae.

Should the author have applied a minimum of research to Hadzi and his sculpture, he would have discovered that a retrospective exhibition of his work is currently being held at M. I. T. and that the Chancellor of that institution recently inaugurated a commissioned monumental bronze with considerable ceremony in the courtyard of the Hayden Gallery of the Institute. Other large sculptures have recently been acquired or commissioned by Yale, Andover, the Museum of Modern Art, the Guggenheim Museum, the Whitney Museum and the New School for Social Research all in New York as well as for the collections of the Chase Manhattan Bank, the Union Carbide Corporation, the Reynolds Metal Company and the new Lincoln Center for the Performing Arts in New York. Princeton's new bronze joins an august company.

In addition Hadzi was one of but four American artists chosen to represent the United States in the XXXI Venice Biennale of 1962.

For the information of the author of the caption the title "Thermopylae" has meaning to others than the artist. Hadzi, though American born, is of Greek origin and casts the struggles of today in terms of his ancient heritage.

His bronze recalls the remnants of battered helmets and crushed armor left after a heroic battle of 300 Spartans in a vain but glorious attempt to stem the tide for freedom over tyranny. To preserve such a concept has plenty "to do with Princeton and Thermopylae" for generations to come.

PATRICK J. KELLEHER

Editor's Note: TOWN TOPICS appreciates Mr. Kelleher's comment on Mrs. Peter Cook's art column, hastens to report that she was in no way involved in its estimate of the piece of sculpture under discussion. We bow to the vastly superior knowledge of art of this week's correspondents, and welcome the facts surrounding creation of "Thermopylae," but remain unbowed in our estimate of its aesthetic appeal.

Amazed by Flippancy.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

In your issue of May 30 you printed the enclosed photograph (see cut) with a criticism of it by a local sculptor.

The flippancy of your attitude amazed me! You did not name the artist whose work you reproduced and only gave your public an adverse opinion of his work.

As a sculptor, myself, I respect the effort and point of view of a colleague even though the idiom he uses is not one which suits me.

This work must have been authorized by the architects or some board of selection and in ridiculing it, you also ridicule them.

Don't Shoot, Tell Police.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

The tranquility of Lawrenceville has been very much disturbed by the alarming fact that, in a single week, three cats in the Main Street-Manning Lane area have been shot. One cat, bleeding from the mouth and his hind legs paralyzed, was able to drag itself to a neighboring yard and was mercifully put to death by police. A second returned to its home to die. A third, though painfully wounded, is still alive.

To set out deliberately to annihilate all available cats simply because "one doesn't like cats" is to exhibit a grossly fundamental lack of intelligence and social responsibility. One wonders at the type of personality that could possibly derive a perverse pleasure from killing or seriously maiming a small pet that has been held in affection by a family.

Much more serious than the senseless and indiscriminate killing of pets is the extremely dangerous situation created for the local children. There are over a dozen living in the immediate area who will be playing and running from yard to yard during the balmy summer evenings.

A parent can protect his child from such things as the speeding traffic on Main Street by warning him to stay off the street, but one cannot warn a child of the insidious menace of a stray or ricocheting sniper's bullet in this residential area. It is frightening to think of the possible consequences.

The police are concerned about the situation and have posted the township ordinance in the post office stating that the discharging of firearms in the village is unlawful with a conviction carrying a maximum penalty of up to $100 fine and/or up to 90 days imprisonment. These shots were not fired all at once.

One was heard on May 30, another at 10:30 p.m. June 2. Surely someone has heard them or others and knows where they came from. Before a tragedy occurs, anyone having pertinent information is strongly urged to contact the Lawrence Township police so that they may put an end to this criminal and hazardous behavior.

PRINCETON ARTIST: James E. Davis, a Princeton graduate of the Class of 1923, has on display in McCormick Hall what is scheduled to be the last exhibition before the demolition of the building.

ART In Princeton

EXPLORATION IN SPACE

At Princeton Art Museum. The last show to be hung in the old Princeton Art Museum before it falls to the wreckers' crew is a happy choice: an exhibition of work by James E. Davis whose life and career have been closely tied to Princeton, University and community.

It is a timely tribute in that this June marks his 40th Reunion. Furthermore, it is appropriate that in our day of scientific exploration into space, we have a chance to follow the exploration of space with a visual artist, an artist who, through a classical training in Princeton's Art and Archaeology Department, through specialization in architecture, painting, teaching and photography, has put his knowledge and skills towards a very individual expression of the theme, "Movement in Space."

French Influence. To pursue this trend, an escape from the static is possible at the current Museum show which is effectively arranged to provide a continuity building up to the crescendo of the "dark room" exhibit. Early under the influence of Poussin in the classical tradition, Jim Davis went on to study in France with Andre' Lhote who combined the classical and the modern.

During this period, he made exercises in composition of the human figure, all done "one, two, three" with a careful preliminary line drawing, a separate color study followed by the final combination of line, color and figure. Cezanne's technique of "passage" became a real passion with him, and today, he admits that in Art his thinking is still very French.

Action Is the Thing. When he started painting and teaching at home again, he found his former style too static for the times: "everything in America seemed to be in motion." He began freeing himself with motion in space. He made action studies of athletes and dancers, concentrating more and more on deleting the figure and emphasizing its motion. We find "Basketball Player-Plus" the epitome of his aim to record the path of motion.

Duchamps' "Nude Descending the Staircase" was an original of this type of experimentation that Jim Davis carried on further with his Brownie camera which he fastened to a stool. His model would then move before a wide open shutter with the result that, after development, the object was gone, the transparent shapes in time and space remained. Until the invention of the multilash in photography, Jim Davis said no one knew what he was talking about when he described "The shape of space in time."

Hemmed In. Still feeling restricted by static elements, he started painting on plastic, then by bending the plastic and controlling light, he was thrilled to see the beginning of movement and the extraordinary effectiveness of shadows. At this point of our tour in the Museum, we must enter the mysterious dark room where the plasies, mobiles and screens are shown to the accompaniment of music.

Why music? "Because any move in nature makes a sound." His work is "a kind of music made to be looked at," he says, reminding us that Leonardo once said, "Painting is a kind of poetry made to be looked at."

In this phase, he has freed himself from all boundaries within the frame, returning to sculpture in mobiles which, by control of moving light, create a constantly changing mural in an architectural background. One of the mobiles on exhibition is in the permanent collection of the University, a memorial to the late Professor George Rowley.

Reflections. From the mobile itself, Jim Davis moved on to the consideration of the mobile's reflections which move like so many "Tinkerbells" across the walls and ceiling, lazily, swiftly, with a life of their own depending on the motion control. These reflections compose the screens which are like streams of consciousness, flowing abstractions of color.

This stage presents one problem, how to capture the moving changing art form and his solution has been in filming. His movies, unfortunately, are not on exhibition, but as an abstract film-maker, he feels that he has found his ultimate release into space and the resolution of his whole conflict between the static and the dynamic.

Here is an artist's unique and fascinating contribution to the revolutionary concept of space in our 20th Century. Nijinsky said of himself what applies as well to Jim Davis: "I am a man of motion, not of immobility."

Jim adds, "My motto for Modern Art is, if it doesn't move, to hell with it."

ALL THIS AND MORE: Jane Sayen has been a successful interior decorator in Princeton for almost two decades. Now she is enlarging her horizons to include affiliation with Design Council, Inc., industrial and commercial decorators, but she will continue to serve Princeton clients as before. More about Miss Sayen in story, this page.

BUSINESS In Princeton

HOW'S YOUR OFFICE?

Decorator Will Help. "Have you taken your view from the president's office for granted?"

With this provocative greeting, Jane Sayen, owner of the Princeton Decorating Shop, has launched a new aspect of her business: industrial and commercial design.

Miss Sayen has just been elected an associate of Design Council, Inc., 649 Madison Avenue, an organization which has specialized since 1953 in commercial and industrial design assignments.

Princeton Decorating will continue to execute the residential and private contracts that have made it a successful decorating establishment since it was first opened by Miss Sayen in 1946. The new affiliation with Design Council represents merely an increasing scope, Miss Sayen said in announcing the expanded activities.

Working out of New York and Princeton, Miss Sayen will serve as an agent for Design Council in obtaining clients, chiefly in the New Jersey area, although the Council's work has no geographic limits.

The opening sentence quoted in the paragraph above is Miss Sayen's greeting to the presidents of the country's 700 largest corporations. Ideally, Design Council works right from the first, with the architect of a new office building, research laboratory, motel or hotel.

However, the Council's decorators will also redesign space that is already in use, analyzing a complete store, for example, to lay out the best possible display arrangement for mink coats or children's shoes. Besides these visual aids to sales, Council decorators will design furniture and arrange it properly within the store or office, so that the furniture and decor are themselves salesmen for a product.

Model apartments and model homes in developments are also within the scope of the Council, Miss Sayen pointed out. And then there is that president's office and the view from the executive suite out to the main plant.

Council specialists believe that the correct styling of furniture, color, walls are more important to employee efficiency and morale than most employers realize, and this will be a strong part of Miss Sayen's sales approach.

There is no limit, in either direction, to Design Council services. Miss Sayen and her associates work the way a decorator does with a housewife as modestly or as expansively as the budget will allow, providing only advice, drawings or working on to the actual completion of a job.

Previous Design Council contracts have been with the general offices of Rockefeller Center; Peck and Peck in Washington; Revillon Freres; Westinghouse; the Owens-Corning Glass Company and Columbia University, among others.

A graduate of Miss Fine's School and Barnard College, Miss Sayen attended the Trenton School of Industrial Arts. She was an assistant decorator to the Walter Edmonson Johnson Shop in Princeton before starting her own shop.

SPORTS In Princeton

BIG SHOW IN TENNIS
NCAA Championships Here. The 79th annual National Collegiate Tennis Championships, a six-day tournament which will produce steady morning and afternoon action, will be held on the Princeton University Courts next week. Nearly 100 players from upwards of 30 colleges will take part. Bleachers will be erected on the courts themselves with a seating capacity of 1,200 and after Monday, the only day when there is no admission charge the principal matches will be held on four central courts.

John Conroy, meet director and coach of Princeton's Eastern Association champions, reports that one of the strongest fields in years is entered. Pick of the crop is the University of Southern California, the defending champion which is favored to repeat. Earlier this spring, USC defeated UCLA, the probable runner-up in the NCAA Tournament, 6 to 3, before 3,000 spectators. These two dominate West Coast tennis, and figure to finish one-two here.

Tigers Should Do Well. Although Northwestern, Michigan, Miami and Arizona are expected to round out the top half dozen teams, Princeton will give the home-town crowd something to cheer about. Herb Fitzgibbon compiled a 10-1 record this season at no. 1 for the Tigers, and John Conroy's squad has better than average depth. At Stanford a year ago, Princeton finished in a three-way tie for seventh. Along the eastern seaboard, the Orange and Black has not lost a dual match since 1961.

Rafael Osuna of USC is the defending singles champion and will also seek to repeat in the doubles when he pairs with Ramsey Earnhart. The finals in both events are scheduled for Saturday.

The team championship will be won by the entry compiling the largest point total, with one point awarded for each advancement after the singles field has been reduced to 64 and the doubles to 32. One home-town player will be among the large field: Dave Smoyer, no. 1 at Dartmouth and the Indians' captain this spring, lives at 86 Olden Lane.

TIGER NINE HOPEFUL
Of Ending Yale's String. Two years ago, when Clarke Field was dedicated and Yale played its first game on the new diamond east of Palmer Stadium, Princeton staged a last-inning rally to win that was virtually without parallel in the long series.

The Tigers trailed, 8 to 5, as the bottom half of the ninth opened. When it was over, they had pushed across four runs to win, 0-8, every one of the tallies coming after the Elis had two outs and two strikes on what was potentially the last batter.

Since that time, it's been all Yale, and the Blue will take a five-game winning streak against Princeton into Saturday's annual reunion contest. Eddie Donovan will send either Gerry Skey or Emile Rosenberg against the visitors, who will probably counter with their captain, Bob Kelley.

It was Kelley who hung the most recent defeat on the Tigers when he went the distance at New Haven Saturday in racking up a 14-inning triumph. The home team scored in the last of the 14th to break up the game.

Error Proves Costly. Princeton would have won Saturday by a 2-1 count in regulation time had it not been for an error that allowed the Elis to tie the score in the last of the eighth. The run that brought them even crossed the plate when second baseman Don Weeden juggled a grounder with a man on third.

Earlier, Princeton had picked up single tallies in the first and eighth. Rosenberg pitched eight innings, Skey relieving in the ninth and yielding the three singles that produced the deciding run in the 14th. Princeton made nine hits and Yale's defense chipped in with five errors but missed scoring opportunities by the Tigers and Weeden's misplay told the final story.

Last week also brought a 3-1 victory over Lafayette which at least assured the Orange and Black of finishing no worse than .500 for the season. As a result of last week's split, Princeton goes into its final game with a 12-11 record. The Tigers made only two hits off Lafayette but one was a triple by catcher Jody Johnson that chased in two runs. He then scored on a faulty relay, and with Skey in fine form on the mound, errorless ball helped wrap up the decision.

CREW AT SYRACUSE
For Biggest Regatta. All three heavyweight Princeton crews will row on Lake Onondaga at Syracuse Saturday in the largest intercollegiate rowing regatta ever staged. Fifteen shells will go to the stake boats in the varsity event, which Cornell is favored to win.

The Ithacans' closest competitors are expected to be California, Washington and Wisconsin. Should any of the other 11 entries finish among the first four, it will be a distinct upset.

The race will be staged over a three-mile course, a distance that requires considerable stamina on the part of all entries. Princeton has been handicapped by the lateness of its exams, and the fact that the race is being staged earlier this year than in the past. It is the first time in history that the national regatta and the Yale-Princeton baseball game have been held on the same day.

The Tigers did better than expected in the Eastern Sprint Championships at Worcester last month. That distance, however, was 2,000 meters, almost two miles less than they will be called on to cover at Syracuse.

Unlimited Substitutions Hanging in the Balance

The Ivy League last week voted unanimously to ask the NCAA football rules committee for permission to use unlimited substitutions as an experiment during the 1963 season.

In taking this intermediate step, the decision to seek such approval rather than to make the change on their own, the athletic directors in effect took the monkey off their backs. By asking NCAA approval, they have managed simultaneously to support their coaches, who originated the request for a return to two-platoon football, and to escape the blame if the suggestion is vetoed.

Educated estimates are that the coaches' hopes for a return to the rules permitting a player to enter the game whenever the ball changes hands will die aborning. Dave Nelson of Delaware is chairman of the committee which will pass on the request, and he has already gone on record as being violently opposed to the Ivies' wish to play the game differently.

Nelson's point is that a request to return to unlimited substitutions when they are barred by present NCAA rules is tantamount to rebellion, and that the fire may spread. In effect, he feels that if one league takes such a step, others may follow suit.

There is, of course, one final hope that Ivy football may benefit from such a move this season—a step which would simultaneously make for greater enjoyment on the part of players and spectators alike. If the NCAA vetoes the request, the Ivy directors of athletics can stand behind their original decision to play unlimited substitutions without NCAA approval.

In a word, are they selling policy in their own league, or is someone else going to do it for them?

Harrison was also an all-Ivy soccer player in his sophomore year. He is a graduate of Princeton Country Day School and Phillips Academy, Andover, Mass.

GRACE WINS SAILING

With Three Firsts. Winning three of the five races held Sunday, Dick Grace was the victor in Sunday's program staged by the Carnegie Sailing Club. With his wife, Natalie, as crew, they compiled a total of 32.3 points.

Other scores: Bob Wilson, 26.3; Phil Holt, 22.0; Harry Cooke, 20.4; Walt Foster, 16.4; Tom Huntington, 11.1; and Ed Metcalf, 7.0.

EMR WINS PAIR

To Tie for Lead. Electro-Mechanical Research walloped ERC, 17-6, and outlasted ETS, 14-11, last week in the Business Softball League to move into a first-place tie with Columbian Carbon. Previously unbeaten Carbon was defeated, 5-3 by Accelerator.

Solid hitting was the key to EMR's success. Against ERC, four EMR batters each rapped out three hits. Paul Crea was the winning pitcher.

In winning his second game of the week, Crea had a no-hitter going against ETS for 3 and 1/3 innings before the losers combined EMR errors and a cluster of hits for 11 runs. Crea managed to survive the uprising, however, and ev-

A little more finesse was attached to the Columbian Carbon-Accelerator encounter. In this one, Jack Barton's six-hit pitching sent Carbon to its first defeat. Four Carbon batters combined for eight hits while Frank Chianes and Al Golembeski homered and tripped for the losers.

In other games, Don Macbusak homered with one on for the victors. RCA overwhelmed Princeton Hospital, 24-6.

A six-run outburst in the sixth inning enabled American Cyanamid to win its second contest in six starts as it went on to register a 10-5 decision over Accelerator. The losers had rallied four runs in the fourth to take a short-lived lead. Vince Carter homered for Cyanamid.

GIANTS EDGE PIRATES

For Division Crown. The Palmer Square Giants have won their third consecutive National League crown in the Princeton YMCA Midget League. But their margin was ever so close.

To do it, the Giants had to beat the Princeton Savings and Loan Red Legs. In an exciting game Saturday, the defending World Series champions won their "must" game by edging the Red Legs, 6-5. The victory enabled them to nose out the second place Plainsboro Lions Pirates by two points, 52-50.

Earlier in the week, the Pirates had applied the pressure by defeating the Cardinals, 5-4, and the Dodgers, 12-8. Thus the Giants will meet the First National Bank Indians in the World Series. The Indians ended with a 12-point bulge over the Tigers and the Athletics who were tied for second, in capturing the American League title.

A number of rained-out games forced a record 15 contests to be played in the final week.

The final standings:

LACKEY SETS RECORD

With 10-0 Mark. Jack Lackey of 222 N. Harrison Street set a Rider College pitching record Saturday when he won his tenth game without a defeat. This broke the old Rider mark of 9-0 set in 1955 by Leo Chester.

The former Princeton High School standout almost missed. In that tenth game, Rider trailed home team Lafayette 4-1 in the eighth inning. However, the Braves erupted for four runs in the eighth to post a 5-4 victory. It marked the first time Rider had defeated Lafayette in a series that dates back to 1943.

Lackey added to his reputation of being a "Saturday pitcher." Of his ten victories, seven have been recorded on a Saturday.

The 6-foot junior's most impressive victory of the year was against Long Island University, a team that had won 14 in a row prior to its meeting with Rider. Lackey's victory over LIU won Rider an invitation to compete in the NCAA tournament.

In his three years at PHS, Lackey posted a 19-4 record. His best season was his senior year when he recorded an 8-1 mark and pitched the Little Tigers to the Central New Jersey Group 3 state championship. As a freshman, he attended St. Peter's High School in New Brunswick, pitching in two games and winning both. His overall high school record was 21-4.

GIRLS' SOFTBALL STARTS

Four Teams in Action. Thorne's and the Warriors won lopsided victories last week as play began in the Princeton Girls' Softball League. Each team pounded out 25 runs. Thorne's yielding four to Princeton Hospital and the Warriors a lone tally to Engineering Research.

Marion Fugill was the winning pitcher for Thorne's, allowing only five hits, one of them a triple to losing hurler Jerene Meyer. For the victors, Flo Tartaglia, Carol Rainey and Pal Downing all homered, with the latter collecting four hits in five trips to the plate. The Warriors opened with a five-run first, held a 10-1 lead when a brief shower interrupted action and came back to push 15 more runs across the plate in the final three innings. Bobbie Nash weighed in with three home runs to back the pitching of "Stretch" Seaman and Jeanette Guerra. Hazel Caruso had the lone r.b.i. for ERC.

News Of The CHURCHES

TRENDS IN THE CHURCH

Another in a series of commentaries by Princeton clergy men. Today's author is the Rev. Dr. J. Christy Wilson, for 20 years an evangelist among the Moslems in Iran. His topic is "The World's Greatest Enterprise."

Many Christian people fail to realize that, whether they are personally devoted to it or not, they are engaged in the greatest enterprise the world has ever known. The one great task which Christ gave to His disciples after the cross and resurrection was to preach the gospel to the world.

They began and finally that small band of disciples without financial backing, or formal education or a definite program, overcame the mighty power of Rome.

When Nero burned the Christians at the stake and threw them to the lions little did he realize that after 2000 years men would name their dogs Nero, but would call their sons Paul.

The world expansion of the Christian Church has not gone forward in a steady upward curve but has progressed in waves, sometimes being almost static or losing ground, but over the long perspective always rising higher both in numbers and geographical extent.

During the past century and half Christian Missions have passed through the pioneer stage of the worldwide church and the institutional stage. Education and medical work have kept progress with the establishment of the church. The new age will be the era of co-operation with the ecumenical church or Christian fellowship in all the world.

The present is a radical and revolutionary time of change throughout the world. Christian Missions are making the adjustment to new conditions of nationalism and new orders in the political, social, cultural and economic fields.

If imitation is the most sincere form of flattery, Christian Missions must look upon the Peace Corps as a compliment to their effectiveness. The "Peace Corps" has been going on for many years and is still tremendously larger than all the work of the Peace Corps both in personnel and expenditures.

Protestant missionaries and fraternal workers from America engaged in overseas work last year numbered more than 27,000. In the new era we realize that no country can be called ed Christian and there is no land without Christian witness, so the enterprise is not one from West to East but a cooperative venture of a great world Christian fellowship.

Nations rise and fall, world wars come and go, the headlines may be on the side of the bombs and the battleships, the instruments of destruction; but down across the ages comes the kingdom of Christ, ever stronger, ever more potent and all its efforts are for construction and for good. This is by all odds the greatest enterprise the world has ever known.

B. Duryee and Raymond Male. The winning essays will be on display at the Princeton Public Library for a week beginning Monday, June 17. Students from Princeton High School, Miss Fine's, Princeton Country Day and Hun Schools participated in the contest.

PHOTOS ON DISPLAY

At University Store, The University Store will display this month a collection of photographs which have illustrated the cover of Cyanograms, a nation-wide agricultural magazine published by American Cyanamid Company.

The pictures depict agricultural scenes photographed by Bert Larson, the editor of the magazine. Mr. Larson is a public relations supervisor for the Cyanamid Agricultural Center near Princeton.

Included in the collection is a series of insect photographs taken at high magnifications. The photographs will be on display throughout June.

GARDEN PRIZE AWARDED

To Theological Seminary. The Garden Club of New Jersey has presented a citation for excellence in landscape design to Princeton Theological Seminary.

The award was presented for the landscaping of the Seminary's Robert E. Speer Library. Thomas Brian, superintendent of the seminary's grounds and building and designer of the library landscape, accepted the award at a ceremony last week on behalf of the seminary.

MORE WATER AVAILABLE

New Filters Add to Supply. Two million gallons of water daily may seem like a lot of liquid for Princeton. But it isn't. Officials of the Princeton Water Company have just increased the capacity of the Stony Brook processing station to three-and-a-half million gallons a day.

The 75 per cent increase has been made possible through the installation of two new filters at the station. Erected on concrete cradles adjacent to the processing building, they will be used when necessary to augment existing well supplies to meet summer peak loads.

The plant has three other filters in operation, and these are used on an all-year-around basis. The water goes from a mixing basin, where chemicals are added, through other basins and is then filtered through sand in the filter tanks.
